The best start in life is free

All parents want to give their children the very best start in life. The great news is that your relationship is actually all that's needed to do this. Research shows that parents who are able to understand & meet their child's emotional needs in a loving & consistent way give their children an amazing start in life.

Children who enjoy a loving healthy relationship with their parents:

- Enjoy more happiness with their parents
- Get along well with friends
- Have high self-esteem
- Are able to handle their feelings
- Trust the people they love

As parents we can spend so much time trying to meet our young children's physical needs that we don't think about what they need from us emotionally.

Circle of Security Parenting Groups are for any parent or carer who would like the time & space to understand their children's emotional needs & meet them in a loving & consistent way.

Here's what some parents have said about the groups:

"I feel more empowered. More able to step back & look objectively at the way I'm parenting & how I'm responding to my child's needs."

"an absolute eye opener"

"It was such a huge help to us & our son. It really encouraged us to understand him better (particularly during the stressful 'terrible two' stage!). It's such a positive thing to do & we are so glad to have participated! Highly recommended. Much better than supernanny any day!"
